John Kang

Full Stack Web Developer

p. 678-616-1566
e. pollyfactor@hotmail.com

Georgia Tech Coding Boot Camp 02/20

Web Development

Code Refactor:

Website with refactored code with better structure and organization for future sustainability.

-HTML CSS

Responsive Portfolio:

Mobile-first portfolio utilizing the grid system with emphasis on layout.

-Bootstrap

Password Generator:

Password application that manufactures password, dependent on user preference for length, lettercase, numbers, and special characters.

-Javascipt

Code Quiz:

Multiple-choice timed quiz that focuses on manipulating the Document Object Model. Concentration on event listeners and intervals.

Day Planner:

Calendar application that saves events on a nine-to-five schedule. Timeblocks represent past, present, and future events, dependent on current user time.

-jQuery Moment.js

Weather Dashboard:

Weather application that utilizes Application Programming Interfaces to determine weather conditions, based on the city entered. Criteria entered into local storage.

-JSON ajax

Project 1: Sup 'N' Sup

Team project application that creates food and drink recipes tailored to user-defined ingredients. A primer for building and structuring a team, communication, and presentation.

-HTML CSS Javascript JSON Bulma framework

Good README Generator

A Command-Line Interface that creates a README.md based upon user-input criteria.

-Node.js, File System, Inquire, Axios

Note Taker

A website used to create, save and delete notes based upon server-side interaction.

-Express, ES6

Employee Management System

Another CLI that takes information and stores it in a database. Functions include adding and viewing departments, roles, and employees, and the ability to update their roles. First foray into CRUD.

-MySQL, Node, Express

Node Express Handlebars

An application that follows the Model View Controller paradigm. A culmination of previous tools where users can create a burger on the front-end, 'devour it', and have the data stored in the database.

-MySQL, Node, Express, Handlebars